

Letter of Authenticity

Rockefeller, Vanderbilt, Carnegie, and J.P. Morgan rose from obscurity and in the process built modern America. These men created the American Dream and were the engine of capitalism as they transformed everything they touched in building the oil, rail, steel, shipping, and finance industries. Their paths crossed repeatedly as they elected presidents, set economic policies and influenced major events of the fifty most formative years America has ever known. From the Civil War to the Great Depression and World War I, they led the way...

1877 J. P. MORGAN 1913
"Go as far as you can see; when you get there, you'll be able to see farther."

1870 JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER 1897
"If you want to succeed, stick out as new paths, rather than travel the worn paths of accepted success."

THE MEN WHO BUILT AMERICA
Rockefeller, Vanderbilt, Carnegie, and Morgan are three towering pillars of the American industrial revolution. Their success paved the way for modern industry and commerce. Their public spirited generosity in their later years, in the form of philanthropy and education, has left a lasting legacy on the world. From the Civil War to the Great Depression and World War I, they led the way.

1889 ANDREW CARNEGIE 1919
"The first man gets the system,
the second man gets the credit."

1864 CARNEGIE UNDEVELOPED 1919
"The best education is that which you do not receive. It is that which you receive."
